Mary Engelbreit

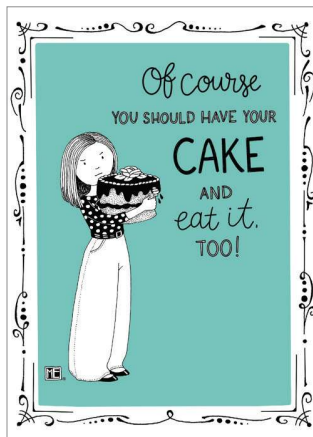

One of the world's most celebrated greeting card artists, Mary Engelbreit has been dubbed a modern Norman Rockwell by People Magazine. Her unmistakable style is a quintessentially American combination of wit and nostalgia. With characters, sayings and scenes often derived directly from her observations and memories, Mary's drawings dramatize familiar childhood perceptions. She continues to touch the hearts of millions each year with her wonderful illustrations and clever, quirky quotes.

Each card comes with a coordinating envelope.

After earning a BFA in painting from Washington State University and spending a couple of decades fiddling with brushes, oils, pencils, markers, and most recently, the mouse attached to her computer, Cori Dantini has discovered an organic process involving layers and language. Any meaning found in her work comes from this process. She never begins a project with a message in mind. Rather, the materials and her process are what do the talking. It is this mysterious, reciprocal quality of art that intrigues her and makes her think of her works as visual poems.

RACHAEL SCHAFFER

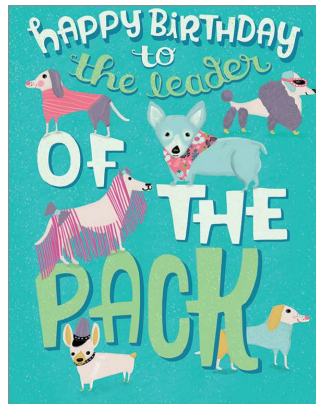

Rachael Schaffer is an artist and illustrator based in San Francisco, CA. The wild nature, gardens, forests, towns, homes and cities she was surrounded by while growing up in Tennessee are ever-present sources of inspiration in her work. She is interested in how it is often difficult to tell the difference between actual history and folk tale mythology. She loves hand-drawn lettering, characters and color, and all of these are present in her work in some combination.

Each card is cello wrapped with a matching kraft paper or white iridescent envelope.

Zesti INE BEERTEN

Ine Beerten is a licensing artist from the vibrant city of Antwerp (Belgium). After starting out as a graphic designer, she discovered the wonderful world of surface pattern design and illustration. Nowadays, she is mostly focused on greeting card and stationery design and hand lettering. Her style is both colourful and playful, filled with lush florals or cute and quirky animals, and she loves to add beautifully hand-lettered text and quotes to her work. She calls her creative business ZESTI, which means with great enthusiasm and energy – having zest for life—and she hopes those qualities are visible in her work and life.

Black History is American History.

This collection highlights the strength and courage black American heroes have shown throughout history. Their stories of perseverance serve as a lesson and inspiration to all of us to be fearless in the pursuit of our goals and dreams.

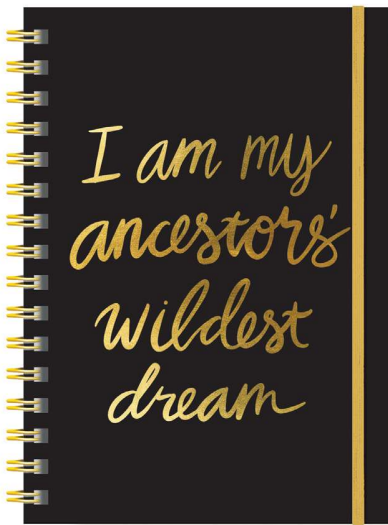

We are more alike than we are different.
